

Connections represent the use of/reliance on components. These components are reusable "Class" like object in our project. The red represents the page in which certain components will be a part of and interact with. Components can be any reusable tool that holds some responsive information that is unique to a current state of the program.

